che.hanawalt@gmail.com

Personal Summary

Chelsea is an enthusiastic educator, applied theatre practitioner, facilitator, and future drama therapist with over 12 years of teaching and performing arts experience. She integrates movement, storytelling, and role-playing into her work, fostering dynamic and immersive experiences. Chelsea is currently pursuing certification as a Registered Drama Therapist. Chelsea is passionate about social justice, disability justice, environmentalism, and experiential learning. She holds a Master's in Applied Theatre from CUNY's School of Professional Studies, where her thesis explored deepening community through playbuilding and group theatre activities with men and women living in a housing program. Chelsea co-founded boom! Theatre, an original works theatre company that operated in Seattle, WA, and New York City from 2010 to 2017. In 2019, she apprenticed with the award winning Creative Arts Team Youth Theatre. She is a co-founder of The Journey Theatre Project, a women-led company facilitating artistic programs and anti-bias trainings. She is also a founder of Sun Moon Stars, a collective that produces creative nature retreats. Additionally, she created allow the sun and allow imagination, where she facilitates drama therapy coaching and creative arts programming.
